

2014 STUDY OF THE U.S. INSTITUTE FOR STUDENT LEADERS ON GLOBAL ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES

Hosted by: East-West Center, Honolulu, Hawaii

Date: May 11 – June 14, 2014

Deadline for Applications: January 6, 2014

1. Institute Objectives

This Study of the U.S. Institute for Student Leaders on Global Environmental Issues is an intensive, rigorous five-week program whose purpose is to provide groups of undergraduate student leaders with a deeper understanding of the United States, while simultaneously enhancing their leadership skills. The program's ultimate goal is to explore the role that environmental policy has played in the economic and political development of the United States and examine the relationship between environmental security and national security. The program will also explore environmental issues in the context of a globalized society, and draw comparisons between the United States and the participants' home countries.

2. Program Description

The Institute on Global Environmental Issues will consist of a balanced series of seminar discussions, readings, group presentations, and lectures for a group of 21 students from five participating countries i.e. Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, and Singapore. The coursework and classroom activities will be complemented by educational travel, site visits, leadership activities, and volunteer opportunities within the local community. The Institutes will include an academic residency component of approximately four weeks and a domestic study tour of approximately one week.

The Institute will use experiential learning techniques to expose participants to current themes in the field, including natural resource management, sustainable development/sustainable agricultural practices, food security, ecotourism, energy generation (new and traditional forms), and water management and treatment. The issues will be explored from numerous angles: local grassroots activism and civic initiatives, market-oriented approaches, and federal government policies and regulation.

Finally, the Institute will explore environmental issues in the context of a globalized society, and draw comparisons between the United States and the participants' home countries. Students will also have the opportunity to leave the classroom to meet with community leaders, and representatives of non-profit organizations. The academic residency will be complemented by an educational tour that will take participants to another area of the U.S. where they will meet with local, state, private, and nonprofit organizations working in the field. The Institute will then conclude with a 3 day program in Washington, D.C. Information on the 2013 program can be found at <http://www.susieastwestcenter.com/>. 3. Housing and Meal Arrangements

Housing will be in university owned dormitories. Participants will be expected to share a room and bathroom with another student of the same gender. Most meals will be provided at campus facilities, though participants will also have access to a kitchen where they may cook some meals on their own. Care will be taken to ensure that any special requirements regarding diet, daily worship, housing, and medical care are satisfied.

4. Health Benefits

All participants will receive the Department of State's coverage of $100,000 with a $15 co-pay for the duration of the program. Pre-existing conditions are not covered. Information on the health benefit program may be found online at usdos.sevencorners.com.

5. Program Funding

The Study of the U.S. Institute will cover all participant costs, including: program administration; international travel costs, domestic travel and ground transportation; book, cultural, mailing and incidental allowances; housing and subsistence.

6. Program Requirements and Restrictions

Participants are expected to participate fully in the academic program. They are expected to attend all lectures and organized activities, and complete assigned readings. Candidates should be aware that the institute is very intensive and that there will be little time for personal pursuits unrelated to the program. Under no circumstances are participants allowed to arrive in the U.S. prior to the start date of the Institute or remain in the U.S. after its end date. Similarly, participants will not be allowed to leave the Institute to visit relatives or friends while in the U.S. If a relative or friend wishes to visit them, it will be addressed on a case by case basis, in consultation with ECA and the program director.

Violations of host institution rules or local, state or federal laws can be grounds for immediate dismissal from the program. It is important that applicants understand and accept these requirements and restrictions.

7. Candidate qualifications
